

BEHAVIORAL ASSESSOR

Course aim and objectives: Assessing seafarer Behavioral Competencies is an approach to safety with focus on identification of gaps in behavioral performance and associated competencies as a contributing factor, to most work-related incidents. Moreover, “at risk” behaviors are the least measurable and observable events before workplace incidents take place. Participants will have the opportunity to develop new skills through strategies on Behavioral Safety and Assessment techniques in a systematic manner for motivating and controlling seafarer improvement of performance and at work safer behavior by implementing comprehensive onboard competency assessment programs aligned with seafarer behavioral competencies during critical shipboard operations. The course conforms to industry best practice guidance including SIRE 2.0, TMSA, and relevant recommendations also introduced by the principles of IMO Model Course 1.30 for performing onboard assessments.

Course main elements:

- Behavioral Competency principles, and structured patterns
- Contributing factors to work related incidents
- Determining decision, skill-based and perceptual errors
- Industry best practice guidance for ship operators
